

Parental Guide to Homework

What does homework look like at St Peter's?

Our homework sheets follow three key themes which we call 'The 3 R's'. Our innovative homework model looks to solidify existing learning and offer opportunities to develop wider knowledge using parental, societal and project based learning. Students will be directed to their homework, when applicable, and this will be added to class-charts as normal.

Why the 3 R's?

Retrieving – Research shows that this is the key element to homework. Retrieval practice is a strategy of recalling facts, concepts or events from memory in order to enhance learning. The act of retrieving something from your memory actually strengthens the connections making it more likely to be recalled in future.

Reading – Reading enables students to develop more understanding around current topics and gain understanding about future topics. Reading content linked to learning increases independence and develops wider and contextualised knowledge.

Rewarding – Homework has to be rewarding. This can be through developing cultural capital, involving parents and much more. If a student can see the relevance of their learning, this can automatically increase importance and enjoyment.

How often does my child have homework?

All subjects are expected to set a minimum of two tasks per subject, per half term, for all key stages on class-charts. Your child will always have the opportunity to complete more using the additional tasks on the homework sheets.

We encourage students to go over and above with their learning, and on the homework sheets there will be other tasks/experiences they can do to deepen their knowledge and understanding around the current topic they are learning.

Where can I see the homework sheets for each subject?

On the school website please select 'Curriculum' or 'Student Life' from the dropdown menu and select 'Homework'.

My child says they don't have any homework set?

A big positive around our homework procedure here at St Peter's is that there is always homework and additional learning experiences for students to complete at any point during the academic year. Please check class-charts for homework set and also use the homework sheets for any subject to find additional tasks they can do. Students will be rewarded for completing all set and additional homework.

How can I support my child with their homework?

- Keep up-to-date with any compulsory homework set for students on 'Class-Charts'
- Encourage your child to complete homework and ensure you talk to them about their tasks and learning. If youngsters verbalise their learning, they are more likely to retain the knowledge.
- Help them manage their time so that they do not have lots of tasks to do in one go
- Try and complete a piece of homework from the rewarding section for a chosen subject with your child.

Can my child complete their homework at school?

Yes, the ALC is open before and after-school everyday for students to use

Will my child be recognised for completing their homework?

All class teachers will track the submission of homework and give verbal acknowledgement and/or achievement points. Those students who complete the additional learning opportunities and evidence this to their teacher will receive additional achievement points; this can then lead to reward trips and purchases from the class-charts shop.
